Driven From Their Homes by Swollen Waters of Ohio River.

Evansville, Ind., January 15.—With a stage of 45.5 feet and still rising the Ohio River is hourly flooding territory and forcing farmers to flee from their homes to cities, many of whom are feeling the effects of the overflow. All low places in Evansville are submerged. Skiffs and launches distributed food and fuel to waterbound homes to-day. Provisions are being distributed from the City Hall.

Fear of looting in sections where houses have been abandoned has caused the police to patrol the district in boats.

At New Albany 1,000 persons are homeless, but the city is able to care for them, refusing aid offered by the Red Cross Society.
